Young Esperanza Ortega lives on the Rancho Linda Flor in 1920's Mexico with her parents, until her scheming uncle destroys her house, life and family in one cruel act. Her mother, intent on rebuilding their life, sends her daughter to America to work in a migrant camp during the Great Depression. Esperanza must learn to adapt to this harsh new world, all the while hanging onto the hope that she will one day see her mother again. Mixing Mexican and American history with a riveting story and a Mariachi chorus, this show is suitable for families and theatergoers of all ages.
